Nothing in His Inaugural Address That Can Be Construed Into Heterodoxy-No Departure from the Westminster Confession.

New York, May 16,-Dr. Briggs's friends and sympathizers, hitherto silent, are fast rallying to his defense. The following is a strong statement made by the faculty of the Union Theological Seminary in his behalf. It is bristling all over with bright things that must please the Doctor. Drs. Hastings, Schaff, Prentiss and Vincent say emphatically that Dr. Briggs's position is the Protestant and Presbyterian position assumed in his subscription to the articles of the Confession. These learned professors say it is unfair to assert that Dr. Briggs is siming to undermine the divine authority of the Scripture. Here is their statement

In view of the general comment and discussion called forth by the recent inaugural address of Prof. Charles A. Briggs, D. D., the undersigned, members of the faculty of Union Theological Seminary, deem it their duty to mak the following statement: With the conviction that Christian courtes modesty and mutual respect for difference of opinion should characterize theological controversy, we distinctly recognize and deprecate the dogmatic and irritating character o feertain of Dr. Briggs's utterances in his inaugural and others of his writings; while, on the other hand, we do not recognize even in these any warrant for persistent misrepresentations of his views and for the style and temper in which he has, in many cases, been assailed. First—The views propounded by Dr. Briggs in his inaugural are not new. They have all been stated by him in one or another of his published works, in articles in the Presbyterian Review during his ten years' editorship, and in more re-cent contributions to other periodicals. More-over, during the last ten years Dr. Briggs has been teaching biblical theology in the seminary, and has been expounding to successive classes of students the statements for which he is now arraigned. The present excitement is, as we believe, due largely to the tone of the inaugural ac dress, to certain unguarded expressions and to an impression that the transfer of the author to the veto of the General Assembly.

ond-The address contains, in our judg ment, nothing which can be fairly construed into heresy or departure from the Weatminster Con-fession, to which Dr. Briggs bonestly subscribed at his recent inauguration. (a) His words con cerning "bibliolatry" are not aimed at humbi and devout reverence for the word of God, but at the error, rebuked by the Apostle Paul, by revering "the letter" above "the spirit." (b) Di Briggs declares that, conjointly with the Bible, the church and the reason are sources of author-ity in religion. He uses the term "reason" as embracing the conscience and the religious feel-ing. We object to the term "sources," since there is but once source of divine authority -God himself. We prefer to say the Bible, the church and the reason are media and vehicles through which we recognize and receive the divine au-

The Confession of Faith declares that "unto the Catholic, visible church Christ bath given the ministry, oracle, and ordinances of God. That the reason, in the broad sense in which it is explained by Dr. Briggs, is also an organ to and through which the divine authority is conveyed, is assumed in Scripture in the Confession and is the necessary postulate of a divine reve lation to man. It is the only point in the natural man to which the quality of God's character, the operations of His power, and the right reasonabieness of His claims can appeal, and it is distinctly declared and assumed by St. Paul to be the recipient of such appeals; to be the subject of the Divine Spirit's lilumination, and become thus the proper instrument for discerning, comparing udging spiritual truth.

If the reason has no such function in religion apertinous to assert that "Scripture is profitable for teaching, for discipline, and for upbuilding in righteousness." Spiritual righteousness implies an intelligent and rational perception and reception of the law and the truth of God. The living sacrifice which is "holy and acceptable unto God ' is a "rational service."

DR. BRIGGS'S POSITION. But Dr. Briggs does not, with the Romanist exalt the church above the Bible and the reason He does not, with the Rationalist, place the reason above the Bible and the church. Neither does he, as has been often charged, co-ordinate the three sources. His position is the Protestant and the Presbyterian position, assumed in his subscription to the declaration of the Confession, that the Scriptures are "The only infallible rule of faith and practice," and asserted in his address in the words: "Protestant Christianity builds its faith and life on the divine authority contained in the Scriptures." The Protestant Christianity too often depreciates the church, and the reason is an entirely distinct statement, involving a question of fact; and the statement and its discussion in no way affect Dr. Briggs's indorsement of the Protestant doctrine of the To assert, has been so often done, that Dr. Briggs is alternated undermine the divine authority of Scripture is pre-eminently unfair. Not only this imagural, but all his published writings, teem with the most positive and unof Dr. Briggs's position as t the supreme acciority and divine quality of Holy Scripture is in no way affected by his views of the nature of inspiration. While asserting the plenary inspiration of Scripture, he denies that inspiration involves absolute inerrancy literal, verbal accuracy, and perfect correspon ence of minor details. In this view there is nothing original or new.

It is the view of Calvin and of an overwhelming majority of Protestant divines in Europe and years ago by Dr. Briggs in his "Biblical Study iration in the sense of literal inerrancy nowhere claimed for Scripture by Scripture it self. It is contradicted by the contents of Script ure in the form in which we have it. It involves logically a minute, specific, divine superintendence of each detail of the entire process of trans ission—copying, translating, printing—and the evention of all errors. It confronts those who aintain it not only with discrepancies of statement in the present text, but with the innumerable textual variations in the Hebrew and Greek les and the variations between the Hebrew and the Septuagint. To meet these facts with the assertion of the inerrancy of the original phs is to beg the whole question in dispute, to lay down a purely arbitrary, a priori hy-pothesis, and to introduce into the discussion an entirely irrelevant factor, seeing that the errors and discrepancies remain and the original autographs cannot be recovered.

To make the inspiration of Scripture turn upon verbal inerrancy is to commit the church to an utterly untenable position and to place its apolo gists at the mercy of cavilers, who are only too giad to evade broader and deeper issues and to shift the discussion to the region of merc verbal etails, where they are sure to have the best o

DIVINE INSPIRATION.

Dr. Briggs holds and teaches the doctrine of the divine inspiration, infallibilty and authority of the Holy Scriptures in all matters of Christian faith and duty, which is all that any evangelical divine is bound to maintain on that subject. The Westminster and other confessions of faith clearly and strongly assert the fact of the divine inspiration, but wisely abstain from defining the mode and degrees of inspiration. The former is a matter of faith, the latter of human theory, on which there must be liberty if there is to be any progress. To impose upon a Christian teacher any particular theory of inspiration not sanc-tioned by the Bible is tyranny.

Dr. Briggs is further charged with a departure rom the Westminster eschatology in teaching progressive sanctification after death. While we are not to be understood as accepting or indorsing Dr. Briggs's conclusion on this point, it is sufficient to say that he is here in an open field where, having expressly repudiated the doctrines of future probation, universal restoration, and the Romanist purgatory, he is certainly entitled to the largest liberty in the attempt to elucidate a subject so little understood, and on which the standards are open to differences of Third-After years of familiar acquaintance with Dr. Briggs and his teachings we are ved to utter our emphatic protest against the spirit and language with which in so many cases he has been assailed. If, in any of his writings, Dr. Briggs, as is charged, has wantonly offended the honest convictions good men, or has, in any other way, ned against the ethical code of Christian holarship laid down in the New Testament, it is not our business to defend him therein. He must answer for it to his own conscience and to God. But in the public discussion of matters of on it is neither right nor decent that an est, learned, devoted scholar and faithful teacher, even though mistaken, should be atputations of unworthy motive. In like manner we protest against the matter and temper of the assaults on Union Seminary. its history of over half a century, by the tracter, standing and services of its graduates, by the amount and value of its contributo Christian literature, this instituassaults. Its professors, in subscribing to the Westminster standards, have always been understood to do so with the the right of every Christian scholar. They honor the venerable confessions of past ages, but they place the Bible above the confessions and hold

THE BIBLE SUBJECT TO REVISION. We assert and must insist upon the liberty exercised by the reformers and by the early church to discuss the scriptures freely and reverently and to avail ourselves of all the light which may be thrown upon them from any source. It is in the interest of God's truth to set forth the Scripture as it is, and not to expose its friends and teachers to humiliation and defeat by claiming for it what cannot be substantiated. We maintain that human conceptions of the Bible and of its inspired teachings are subject to revision. To grasp the results of deeper research and to apply them with caution, reverence, and boidness to the examination of Scripture is not only our privilege, it is our ure is not only our privilege, it is our solemn duty, in the discharge of the sacred trust committed to us by Christ and His church. More light is yet to break from God's Word. We would be found ever upon the watch-towers to eatch be found ever upon the watch-towers to eatch and to transmit its rays. No theological school can take any other attitude without neglecting its duty to the present age and losing its hold upon the rising generation of biblical students. That such a method may dissipate or modify cer-tain traditional views as to the origin or date of the books of Scripture; that it may expose and correct certain long-established errors of interstation; that it may modify certain theological dogmas is only what is to be expected from simi-lar results in the past. But we have no fear for the Bible. The Word of God will come forth from the fire of reverent criticism as fine gold, with a new accretion of testimony to its divine origin and a new power of appeal to the world.

Heber Newton to Be Put on the Rack, NEW YORK, May 16. - The charges brought by Father Ignatius against the orthodoxy of the Rev. H. Heber Newton, D. The points in Dr. Newton's teaching that are to be submitted to the bishop are his alleged denial of the miraculous conception of Christ and the resurrection of the human body of KEMINDERS OF THE GOLD CRAZE.

Discovery of Treasure Buried in California by the Ill-Fated Donner Party in 1846-7.

TRUCKEE, Cal., May 16 .- There is great excitement in Truckee over the discovery of a portion of the treasure buried by the Donner party in 1846-7. In the early days of the gold excitement in this State the Donner party attempted to cross the mountains into California by an untried pass. They were snowed up in the mountains and suffered great hardships, many dying from cold and starvation. Relief expeditions were sent out and a few survivors were rescued in this way. During their sufferings the party buried a quantity of treasure, the amount of which is estimated by some at $10,000. A search has frequently been made for the treasure, but without success. There is authentic history of the burial of several hundred dollars by Mrs. Graves, one of the members of the party, on March 3, 1847, near the shores of Donner lake and it is supposed that it was this money which was found on Thursday last by a miner named Reynolds who was prospecting on the hillside near the lake. He found a spot where the earth had been torn up by a falling tree and his attention was accidentally called to some dark-looking pieces of money lying on the top of the ground. He picked up ten ancient-looking dollars and upon scratching slightly in the earth uncovered a large quantity of silver. He afterwards searched the ground with a companion and yesterday the men succeeded in finding nearly $200. They are still prosecuting the search and other searching parties are being organized here. From present indications the hills on the north side of Donner lake will soon be covered with treasure-hunters. Persons familiar with the incidents connected with the Donner party feel no doubt that the money just found is that buried by the Donner party forty years ago. The coins are of all dates prior to 1845 and of the most obselete and forgotten markings. The come are from France, Spain, Bolivia, Argentine Republic and a number of other foreign countries, besides a very rare collection of American pieces are included in the treasure. As relics of the Donner party the find is a very valuable one, $100 having been offered for one of the pieces.

CIRCUS RIOT AT PITTSBURG.

Tent Cut and Burned by "Toughs" and Fifteen People Injured, Two Fatally.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 16.—Yesterday Allen Lynch, of this city, pitched a large circus tent in the Seventeenth ward for the purpose of opening a 10-cent show. Just previous to the close of last night's performance a riot occurred, in which tifteen people were more or less injured by a mob of men and boys. "Bud" McCauley and John Morgan, who were among the "toughs," were probably tatally hurt. The mob attempted to force an entrance to the tent. They were resisted by the circus employes and driven away by the police. Later they returned about 150 strong, slit the canvas and cut the guy-ropes. Bricks, cobblestones and clubs were hurled through the canvas and painfully injured a number of people. The audience became panicstricken and made a rush for the exits. The cut guy-ropes permitted the side polls to fall down. The canvas collapsed and caught fire from the gasoline lights on the center-poles. The people became frantic in their effort to escape and many were trampled on. The people fought their way out just in time to escape from the rapidly-burning canvas. The mob outside, realizing the extent of their depredations, escaped. A number of the participants are known, however, and several arrests were made to-day.

Close of the Scotch-Irish Congress, LOUISVILLE, May 16.—The last day's session of the Scotch-Irish congress was well attended this morning. President Bonner called the congress to order at 10 A. M., and Rev. Nevin Woodside, of Pittsburg, prayed for the further advancement of the Scotch-Irish race, for the extinction of race prejudice and the union of all in an effort to promote civilization and godliness. Dr. McIntosh read a paper setting forth the objects of the society and inviting all of Scotch-Irish descent to unite with the congress. President Bonner introduced Rev. Stuart Acheson, of Toronto, Canada, who read a paper on "The Scotch-Irish in Canada." Letters of regret were read from President Diaz, of Mexico; Mayor Washburne, of Chicago; Governor Hogg, of Texas; Governor Campbell, of Ohio; Consul Bruce, of Edinburgh; Governor Hole, of North Carolina; Francis D. Rapacious Battle-Ground Owners. CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 16.-There is imminent danger that the prospect to make a national park of the Chickamauga battleground will end in failure, the only reason being the tapacity of the land-owners. Property held at the nominal value of $5 to $10 an acre is now thought to be worth $100 to $200, and even $300. The committee will not favor a condemnation process, but they are disgusted with the spirit shown. They will, unless equitable prices are made, report adversely upon the plan. This disposition was the subject of a two hours' conference yesterday afternoon. Any fur-Shatley, eashier of the Kansas City Safe-deposit and Savings Bank, received through the mail a small package containing a key attached to a brass tag, on which was engraved the name of the safe-deposit bank and the number of the key. The key was from the coroner of Central Middlesex, London. Upon comparison of the number with the safe-deposit vaults, it was discovered that the key belonged to the vault rented to Queal at the time of his disappearance. Communication with the coroner from whom the key was received, elicited the fact that the key was taken from the body of a young man who had committed suicide by drowning in the river Bent, near London, in the month of April, 1890. Photographs of Queal were forwarded to the coroner, and established beyond a doubt that the body of the suicide was that of the missing Arthur Queal.

RICHES THAT CAUSE TROUBLE.

Carroll County Attorneys Claim the Bowen Estate Tax-List Should Be $5,600,000.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. DELPHI, Ind., May 16.—It is being asserted that the settlement made by the bondsmen of William R. Stewart, ex-treasurer of this county, with the County Commissioners, will have a sequel in the resignation of Mr. Stewart as administrator of the Bowen estate. Before it was discovered that Stewart was short in his accounts he was appointed administrator of this estate to look after the interests of the county in the collection of back taxes. It is now claimed that the Bowen heirs have played an important part in the settlement of shortage, and that one condition of it is that Stewart present his resignation as administrator at the June term of the Circuit Court. Ever since the court appointed Stewart the Bowen heirs have fought unceasingly to have him removed, and it appears that they have at last gained their point. But their victory comes too late, it is said, to do them any good in their tax suits, as the auditor has listened to all the proof, and is now simply considering how large an amount he will place on the tax duplicate. As Mr. Stewart was apadministrator simply after the placing of this sequestered property on the tax duplicate the labors which he was expected to perform were completed when the matter was presented to the auditor. The whole matter now rests in the hands of Auditor Dunkle and his action is awaited by the people of the county with no little interest.

The attorneys asked that he place $5,600,000 on the duplicate and made astonishing proof for their demand. The flat refusal of Mr. A. T. Bowen, who has the books and accounts of his father in his keeping. to produce any books or records that would tend to throw any light on the amount of the family personal possessions, placed the estate in an unenviable light. The attorneys for the county demanded that the auditor place the entire sum asked or the duplicate, so that it would then rest with the Bowens to bring back to Indiana the records that have been spirited away, and show that there is no ground for the big claims made by the county. The Bowen residence in this city. deserted by the family several weeks ago, when they left to take up their residence in distant States, is still tenantless. Mr. A. T. Bowen, however, has returned and is in charge of the bank. He claims Philadelphia as his residence.

Hacked His Wife with an Ax. UTICA, N. Y., May 16 .- Louis Layez, a Frenchman living on a farm near Lee Center, last evening told his wife that he thought he had better kill her and the three children and hang himself, presumably on account of their poverty. The wife was very much frighted, but she put the children to bed and sat in the dark. At 3 o'clock this morning she woke the oldest child, a girl of twelve years, and together they went to an outhouse. As soon as they left the house Layez arose and followed them. He burst in the door of the house with an ax and dealt the wife a blow on the head. He also struck at the girl, but she evaded him and ran into the house. She heard her father dealing other blows on her mother and hurriedly woke her little brother and sister, aged eight and three and a half years, respectively, and ran out into the fields. She succeeded in reaching the house of a neighbor, about half a mile distant, and gave the slarm. Other neighbors were aroused and the scene of assault was visited. Mrs. Layez was found lying in the path unconscious. There was a deep cut in her forehead and eight or nine deep gashes on the back of her head. Layez had disappeared.

weak at first, rallied sharply, nearly recovering the early losses and bringing prices up close to those of last evening. The general expectation, in view of the extraordinarily heavy shipments of gold for the last two weeks, was that the bank statement would show a serious decrease in the reserves, if not a complete loss of the reserves. There was therefore a vigorous effort to sell all the stocks which the market would take in early trading, and although there was undoubtedly good support given many of the leading shares, the effect was to make an extremely feverish and withal weak market. The support was apparently withdrawn toward 11 o'clock and the pressure to sell became more pruent, so that a sharp decline all along the line brought prices down from 1 to 2 per cent. from last evening's figures, the lowest prices of the week being reached. On the downward movement Manhattan, Chicago Gas, Louisville & Nashville, Pacific Mail, Union Pacific and Rock Island were specially prominent. The strongest spot on the list was the Northern Pacific, which were helped by the cable advices from Berlin, giving interviews with some influential officers of the Deutsche Bank, in which they expressed great friendship for Mr. Villard, and deprecated the recent stories of a break between that gentleman and the bank. The bank statement, however, when it appeared, showed a small increase in the reserves, instead of the loss expected, and there was a rush to buy, greater even than the previous pressure to sell, and prices rallied very sharply, recovering in the fif-teen minutes left to do business almost all the losses of the morning. There was most excellent buying of the Northern Pacific, Missouri Pacific, the Wheeling & Lake Eries, Rock Island and Union Pacific. Market Opened Stronger, but Fell Off on Increased Sales, Closing at a Loss. CHICAGO, May 16.- Reports of generous rain-falls in the Southwestern wheat belt were circulated on the Board of Trade at the opening this morning. It materially changed the speculative situation in the wheat pit, as it quieted the talk of damage by dry weather and temporarily silenced the talk of msect damage. It was thought that copious rains in Kansas had certainly drowned out the chinch-bugs. Acting on this theory the "bear" leaders made a little more aggressive campaign, and they had great help in shape of selling orders from the Southwest and from outsiders generally. The local demand was not great. In fact, the local traders seemed to be acting against their privileges. Whenever the market reached the price at which "puts" had sold last night the holders of these privileges, having an insurance against loss, would do a LIVE STOCK. little buying. Any bulge, however, brought most of this wheat the market again. Charters of vessel room for about 300,000 bushels of wheat were made here last night and this morning. The news became public during the morning, and lifted prices almost to the point at which they closed yesterday. The bulge was not maintained, however, as offerings were liberal. The "bear" leaders during the day were Ream and Linn, who put out substantial lines of "shorts." Bullish news was not wanting. The favorable New York bank statement, continued dry weather and prospects for a late crop season in the Northwest, advices by France there had been renewed, several firm cables and estimates of a heavy decrease in the visible supply were among them. In the face of all this, however, the heavy pressure to seil by local bears and the representatives of New York, St. Louis and other houses, gave the market a decidedly weak tone during most of the day. July opened at $1.0258 and immediately broke to $1.02 and rallied to $1.0238, declined to $1.0112. recovered to $1.0238. sagged off and closed at $1.0134.

A Week in Which Business Has Been Very Satisfactory in Its Volume, INDIANAPOLIS, May 16.-Wholesale men, almost without exception, speak of trade as being of very satisfactory proportions and the business conditions promising in character. Prices, as a rule, carry a very firm, steady tone. Where prices have weakened, as in the produce markets. it is on articles which rule high in price, in fact, exorbitant in prices. The coming in of green stuff quite freely, largely of home production, has tended to weaken prices on all kinds of vegetables. Cabbages, potatoes and the like are now getting in reach of the laboring classes. Oranges, strawberries and pine apples seldom sell at lower figures so early in the season. Some very good berries have been sold this week as low as $2 per case of twenty-four quarts. Some fine oranges are coming on to the market, which sell at $3.25 per box. Lemons are scarce and high. Old Irish potatoes are weak at quotations, and next week lower prices are looked for on new potatoes. Eggs, butter and poultry all rule easy at prices quoted. In groceries there is a healthy movement. Sugars are firmer, while coffees are in very strong position, and further advance in prices of roasted grades probable. The seed men report trade slow, prices unchanged, except on clover, which is weak at Thursday's revision of prices. The leather market is active at un-changed prices. The hide market is dull and prices weak.

It was blue Saturday in the local market. Wheat went off 2c and the other cereals were dull and lower. Track bids to-day ruled as follows:
